Declares Blockade of Ports by Germany Will Not Hurt.

EXPECTS SOME HELP

Venezuelans Claim That Germany's Troops Cannot Invade the Country and That Other Countries Will Interfere Soon.

Washington, Dec. 28.—The gathering of German warships in the vicinity of Venezuela and the presence in the same locality of many American, British, French and other foreign warships, is directing a mention to the imminence of the naval demonstration Germany is about to make against Venezuela.

It is probable that the first move by Germany will be the establishment of a blockade of Venezuelan ports so as to prevent the introduction of food products into Venezuela and thus starve the besieged into submission.

Venezuela, it is said, is entirely dependent on the outside world for its supply of corn, which is a staple among the Venezuelans. The Germans are expected to occupy one or more of the main ports of Venezuela, probably La Guayara and Maracaibo. In this connection most positive assurances have been given to the United States government that the occupation is to be temporary and only for such length of time as will permit the collection of the debt due to the Germans thus disposing of the report that there is any ulterior purpose to establish a German coaling station on Venezuelan soil.

On the part of Venezuela it is semi-officially understood that President Castro has made known that he is prepared for any eventuality. The reliance of Venezuela appears to be on the practical difficulties Germany will encounter. Venezuela, it is asserted, has no need of outside supplies, and while corn is much used, in an emergency there are many other cereals which can be put to use. Moreover, the natives are said to be meat eaters almost exclusively, and have no need for corn or outside products.

With reference to German occupation of one or more ports, it is thought to be likely that Venezuela will rely on harassing the invaders. The fresh water supply of La Guayara and Maracaibo is drawn from interior streams and lakes and these are expected to be cut off. The interior of Venezuela is regarded as safe, as it is said that it would take at least 200,000 German soldiers to make headway through the wild and uneven country against guerrilla tactics.

There appears also to be much reliance on the part of Venezuela in the sentiment and sympathy which can be aroused within the United States when an invader is actually operating on American soil and Venezuela issues a declaration of war. Venezuela, it is understood, also relies largely on the fact that foreign capital is invested in the large Venezuelan ports and would be the heaviest sufferers from any destruction wrought by the Germans. Money from France, England, Germany and the United States has built up La Guayara, Maracaibo and the other large places and little Venezuelan capital is at stake. A German blockade, the Venezuelans declare, will prove quite as honorable to American, British and other foreign shipping as it will to the internal interests of Venezuela and the shipping interests are expected to appeal to their several governments. There are a few hoped signs on both sides that at the last moment a clash may be averted.

The presence of the North Atlantic squadron and many other American judgment given in favor of the church the source of much speculation in Germany and Venezuela. The Berlin officials are assured the presence of American ships has nothing to do with Germany's plans against Venezuela, but at Caracas the presence of American ships in the neighborhood distinctly significant.

CAREER OF CAPT. LEARY.

He Was Admired for His Pluck and Ruled Guam as a King.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Captain Leary, who died Friday at Boston, was held in high regard by his fellow sailors because of the nerve he showed in the presence of two German warships in the harbor of Apia, Samoa, during the stirring times which wound up in the tremendous hurricane which wiped out the German and American navies in those waters in 1889. Leary was in command of the Little Adams, a third rate vessel of antique type, and finding the Germans about to interfere forcibly in support of their own candidate for the Samoan chieftainship he cleared the ship for action, first placing himself in position to command either approach, and forbade any interference. He was not molested, and remained at his post until the American squadron under Admiral Kimberly arrived, when he was sent north in the Adams, thus escaping the great hurricane.

He was a unique figure as the first naval governor of the Island of Guam, which he ruled with the power of a king. He called upon the men for a certain amount of work every week, and even prescribed the minimum number of poultry which should be maintained in each family.

He was appointed from Maryland and entered the naval service in 1860. He commanded the San Francisco during the west Indian campaign of the Spanish war.

Almost Lynched in New Jersey.

New York, Dec. 28.—Steve Bederick shot three men in the streets of Passaic, N. J., and when captured would have been lynched had it not been for the firm stand made by a local justice of the peace and a few citizens. Bederick shot John Stodt, and then tried to run away but was followed by a crowd into which he fired, one ball striking Anton Stull in the thigh and another wounding a man named Lavelle in the arm. Bederick's pursuers then closed in and overpowered him. Before he could be rescued he was terribly beaten.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says there is no longer a pretense of denial that the republican party in Ohio is split into factions, and that the Hanna faction and the Foraker faction are after each other with knives and tomahawks. "It is claimed," says the Plain Dealer, "that the two Ohio senators are still friendly, and both deny that they are warring on each other personally, but there is no denial that the adherents of each are out on the war path. Senator Hanna admits that he has his enemies and that he means to fight them tooth and nail. Mr. Foraker blandly says he is not responsible for what his friends may do and that their movements are not by his direction. That, however, deceives nobody. It certainly does not deceive Mr. Hanna, whose distrust and dislike of Foraker is of nearly if not quite twenty years' standing."

GREAT FIRE AT CALVERT.

BLOCK OF BUILDINGS ALMOST TOTALLY DESTROYED.

TWO LIVES LOST—OTHERS INJURED.

Losses Estimated at $100,000—Bryan Fire Department Called Upon for Assistance.

Early yesterday morning the Bryan fire department was summoned to Calvert to assist in fighting a disastrous fire which had broke out between three and four o'clock in the morning above the bank of Adoue & Co. The company made preparations to leave at once when a message came that they need not come. Later on, however, the call for help was repeated and the fire company with the steamer and one hose car was hurriedly placed on board a coal car and caboose, and made the run to Calvert behind an engine sent here for the purpose. They arrived too late to be of use, the fire being in a measure under control, and the water supply insufficient for the engine to be used.

A big crowd went from Bryan to the scene, among the number being an Eagle representative. The fire was frightfully destructive of both life and property. Nearly an entire block of brick business houses was destroyed, two lives lost and three persons badly hurt. The dead are Dr. C. C. Garrett and I. Oscar, the injured, H. Ryman, Dan Lavine and Mr. Overall.

The fire is supposed to have originated above the bank of Adoue & Co., and spread rapidly to the adjoining buildings on the south. This block is on the east side of the street next to the H. & T. C. railroad. The property losses were as follows: Adoue & Co., bankers; Collat, Adoue & Riser, dry goods and groceries; H. Ryman, jeweler; E. Pietsch, shoemaker; J. M. Bibes, barber; J.

J. Lauderdale, dry goods and groceries; G. K. Smith, jeweler, all totally destroyed. I. Oscar's dry goods store on the south corner of the block was damaged, as also was C. S. Allen's hardware store on the corner north of the Adoue bank. McIntosh & McCrary, dry goods, adjoining Allen's hardware store, escaped with small injury.

Dr. Garrett occupied a room above the Adoue bank and was doubtless asleep until every avenue of escape was cut off. He was 83 years old and a Knight Templar. He was a brother of Mr. T. J. Garrett, also of Calvert.

H. Ryman had no insurance on his stock of goods and friends were endeavoring to help him save as much as possible. On this account H. Ryman, I. Oscar, Dan Lavine and a man from Franklin named Overall were caught in Ryman's store by the collapse of the building. Oscar was killed by a falling wall and the others imprisoned until cut out by friends. Dan Lavine had one leg painfully burned; Ryman received injuries in the chest, and Overall about the head. Oscar was about fifty years old and leaves a family. He was a member of the A. O. U. W., Knights of Pythias, Masons and Odd Fellows.

The total amount of the damage and insurance could not be obtained during the reporter's brief stay owing to the confusion and distress. It was, however, a terrible calamity to our sister city, and one in which the Calvert people have the sincere sympathy of Bryan.

HOT BEDS AND COLD FRAMES

The following article on hot beds was prepared by Prof. E. A. White:

The correct management of the hot bed is of the utmost importance, for upon this may rest the success or failure of a whole season's crop. The beds should be ready by the latter part of December, for in this climate the tomato should be sown during the first part of January. The location should be selected so that some protection may be given from the cold north winds, and the south side of a shed or barn is a fine location.

For ordinary use, a hot bed 15 feet long and 6 feet wide is sufficient, for after the plants are nicely started they may be transplanted to the cold frames. A bed 9 feet long and 6 feet wide should germinate enough plants for two acres of ground. In building the hot bed, the ground should be excavated to a depth of about three feet and the sides built up with boards. This checks the radiation of heat from the manure into the surrounding soil. At the surface of the soil, a plank 1 foot wide and 2 inches thick is extended along the northern side. Along the southern side, at a distance equal to the width of the sash, which is usually 6 feet, another plank 6 inches wide and 2 inches thick is run down the length of the bed, the ends are connected by a 2-inch plank and the bed is ready for use. Place cross pieces of 2x4 material at intervals of from 4 to 6 feet to make the whole structure secure and to hold the sash in place.

For this locality, probably no material is cheaper or more effective for heating purposes than cotton seed and hulls. Fill up the bed about eighteen inches with seed and place about six inches of hulls on top to keep them from sprouting. Pack the whole solidly and wet thoroughly to cause them to heat. Above these seed and hulls, six or eight inches of good rich garden soil is applied and the bed is ready for the seed. The seed and hulls will retain sufficient heat for four or five weeks and afterwards the bed may be used as a cold frame.

Sow the seed crosswise of the bed in rows about an inch and a half apart. Take a stick as long as the width of the bed, press it gently into the soil, sow the seeds in the depression and cover them. The depth to cover will depend upon the size of the seeds, but a safe rule for sowing in hot beds is to cover them about five times the thickness of the diameter of the seeds.

After the seeds are sown, the ground should be firmly pressed over them; a planed board may be used, pressing it into the soil with the foot. Watering is an important item. The surface of the soil must never become dried after the seeds are sown or germination will be checked. On the other hand, the soil must not be overwatered, or it will become soggy and sour, and insufficient air will be admitted for germination and the seeds will decay.

To prevent the attack of fungus diseases, such as the "damping off" fungus, mildew and some others, it is advisable after the seeds are sown to spray the whole interior of the beds with Bordeaux mixture, the formula being 6 pounds of blue-stone (copper sulphate), 4 pounds of lime and 45 gallons of water. A mixture of lime and sulphur dusted over the beds before the plants appear is also an excellent preventative. About 3 ounces of sulphur mixed to 2 pounds of lime should be used.

The bed is now ready for the sash. This may be obtained from a hardware dealer at a cost varying from $2 to $3 each. In this climate, cloth is used to a great extent in place of glass, and the decrease in cost is an item much in favor of its use. Strong unbleached cotton cloth is treated with a preparation of oil, lead and resin, and admits sufficient light and answers nearly all the purposes of glass. The formula for the application is 3 quarts of white linseed oil, 1 ounce acetate of lead, 4 ounces white English resin; dissolve the acetate of lead by stirring in three or four spoonfuls of oil, powder the resin, beat the whole gently in a kettle and apply to the cloth while hot.

The critical point in hot bed management is as the young plants appear above the surface of the ground. They must have plenty of air, yet, if the weather is very cold, a strong draft must not strike them. No definite rules can be given for ventilation, but each grower must learn from experience just when to let in and when to shut off the air. As soon as the little plantlets have developed the second pair of leaves, they are ready for transplanting into the cold frames. These frames are made the same as the hot beds, except that no excavation is made and no artificial heat is given. Lighter lumber may also be used; boards one inch thick will answer as well as two inch plank.

Such plants as the tomato and cabbage are usually transplanted twice. The gain in vigor is well worth the additional expense. Transplanting tends to produce a short, vigorous plant, with an increased root area and feeding capacity—one able to support itself by its own stem without artificial support.

In the first transplanting into the cold frames, the plants should be placed about an inch apart each way, but this distance must be increased if only one transplanting is to be given. Too close planting causes deficient light and the plant spindles up weak in stem, with a yellowish green, scant foliage and poorly developed roots. In the second transplanting, the plants should be at least 2 1/2 or 3 inches apart.

As the plants increase in size and strength, more air must be given, and the cloth or glass should be entirely removed for several days before the plants are to be set in the field. In order that they may become sufficiently "hardened off" to prevent injury from sudden cold snaps after planting. Tomato plants rightly hardened off will not be injured by a light frost.

WILL BE ARBITRATED.

Mexico Willing to Settle That Way With the Archbishop of California.

Washington, Dec. 28.—The state department has just added another to the long list of arbitrations which it has arranged within the last few years for the settlement of American claims. This arbitration will provide for the settlement of the "Pious Fund," which has been a subject of diplomatic exchange between the United States and Mexico since the Mexican war. The claim rose through the failure of the Mexican government to pay to the archbishop of California interest on lands belonging to the Jesuits, for which the main government acted as trustee.

The claim was submitted to the Mexican claims commission in 1877 and judgment given in favor of the church for about $1,000,000. There is no apparent reason why Texas should not supply most of the American markets for canned tomatoes and export a few dozen ship loads to foreign countries. The tomatoes can be grown by thousands of tons and can be canned as cheaply here as elsewhere. The demand is immense, and canning factories can be supplied from June until frost. All over East Texas and the coast country the tomato grows to the highest degree of perfection. Why do things on a small scale when there are favorable conditions for an immense business?—Farm and Ranch

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says there is no longer a pretense of denial that the republican party in Ohio is split into factions, and that the Hanna faction and the Foraker faction are after each other with knives and tomahawks. "It is claimed," says the Plain Dealer, "that the two Ohio senators are still friendly, and both deny that they are warring on each other personally, but there is no denial that the adherents of each are out on the war path. Senator Hanna admits that he has his enemies and that he means to fight them tooth and nail. Mr. Foraker blandly says he is not responsible for what his friends may do and that their movements are not by his direction. That, however, deceives nobody. It certainly does not deceive Mr. Hanna, whose distrust and dislike of Foraker is of nearly if not quite twenty years' standing."

GREAT FIRE AT CALVERT.

BLOCK OF BUILDINGS ALMOST TOTALLY DESTROYED.

TWO LIVES LOST—OTHERS INJURED.

Losses Estimated at $100,000—Bryan Fire Department Called Upon for Assistance.

Early yesterday morning the Bryan fire department was summoned to Calvert to assist in fighting a disastrous fire which had broke out between three and four o'clock in the morning above the bank of Adoue & Co. The company made preparations to leave at once when a message came that they need not come. Later on, however, the call for help was repeated and the fire company with the steamer and one hose car was hurriedly placed on board a coal car and caboose, and made the run to Calvert behind an engine sent here for the purpose. They arrived too late to be of use, the fire being in a measure under control, and the water supply insufficient for the engine to be used.

A big crowd went from Bryan to the scene, among the number being an Eagle representative. The fire was frightfully destructive of both life and property. Nearly an entire block of brick business houses was destroyed, two lives lost and three persons badly hurt. The dead are Dr. C. C. Garrett and I. Oscar, the injured, H. Ryman, Dan Lavine and Mr. Overall.

The fire is supposed to have originated above the bank of Adoue & Co., and spread rapidly to the adjoining buildings on the south. This block is on the east side of the street next to the H. & T. C. railroad. The property losses were as follows: Adoue & Co., bankers; Collat, Adoue & Risser, dry goods and groceries; H. Ryman, jeweler; E. Pietsch, shoemaker; J. M. Bibes, barber; J.

J. Lauderdale, dry goods and groceries; G. K. Smith, jeweler, all totally destroyed. I. Oscar's dry goods store on the south corner of the block was damaged, as also was C. S. Allen's hardware store on the corner north of the Adoue bank. McIntosh & McCrary, dry goods, adjoining Allen's hardware store, escaped with small injury.

Dr. Garrett occupied a room above the Adoue bank and was doubtless asleep until every avenue of escape was cut off. He was 83 years old and a Knight Templar. He was a brother of Mr. T. J. Garrett, also of Calvert.

H. Ryman had no insurance on his stock of goods and friends were endeavoring to help him save as much as possible. On this account H. Ryman, I. Oscar, Dan Lavine and a man from Franklin named Overall were caught in Ryman's store by the collapse of the building. Oscar was killed by a falling wall and the others imprisoned until cut out by friends. Dan Lavine had one leg painfully burned; Ryman received injuries in the chest, and Overall about the head. Oscar was about fifty years old and leaves a family. He was a member of the A. O. U. W., Knights of Pythias, Masons and Odd Fellows.

The total amount of the damage and insurance could not be obtained during the reporter's brief stay owing to the confusion and distress. It was, however, a terrible calamity to our sister city, and one in which the Calvert people have the sincere sympathy of Bryan.

HOT BEDS AND COLD FRAMES

The following article on hot beds was prepared by Prof. E. A. White:

The correct management of the hot bed is of the utmost importance, for upon this may rest the success or failure of a whole season's crop. The beds should be ready by the latter part of December, for in this climate the tomato should be sown during the first part of January. The location should be selected so that some protection may be given from the cold north winds, and the south side of a shed or barn is a fine location.

For ordinary use, a hot bed 15 feet long and 6 feet wide is sufficient, for after the plants are nicely started they may be transplanted to the cold frames. A bed 9 feet long and 6 feet wide should germinate enough plants for two acres of ground. In building the hot bed, the ground should be excavated to a depth of about three feet and the sides built up with boards. This checks the radiation of heat from the manure into the surrounding soil. At the surface of the soil, a plank 1 foot wide and 2 inches thick is extended along the northern side. Along the southern side, at a distance equal to the width of the sash, which is usually 6 feet, another plank 6 inches wide and 2 inches thick is run down the length of the bed, the ends are connected by a 2-inch plank and the bed is ready for use. Place cross pieces of 2x4 material at intervals of from 4 to 6 feet to make the whole structure secure and to hold the sash in place.

For this locality, probably no material is cheaper or more effective for heating purposes than cotton seed and hulls. Fill up the bed about eighteen inches with seed and place about six inches of hulls on top to keep them from sprouting. Pack the whole solidly and wet thoroughly to cause them to heat. Above these seed and hulls, six or eight inches of good rich garden soil is applied and the bed is ready for the seed. The seed and hulls will retain sufficient heat for four or five weeks and afterwards the bed may be used as a cold frame.

Sow the seed crosswise of the bed in rows about an inch and a half apart. Take a stick as long as the width of the bed, press it gently into the soil, sow the seeds in the depression and cover them. The depth to cover will depend upon the size of the seeds, but a safe rule for sowing in hot beds is to cover them about five times the thickness of the diameter of the seeds.

After the seeds are sown, the ground should be firmly pressed over them; a planed board may be used, pressing it into the soil with the foot. Watering is an important item. The surface of the soil must never become dried after the seeds are sown or germination will be checked. On the other hand, the soil must not be overwatered, or it will become soggy and sour, and insufficient air will be admitted for germination and

the seeds will decay.

To prevent the attack of fungus diseases, such as the "damping off" fungus, mildew and some others, it is advisable after the seeds are sown to spray the whole interior of the beds with Bordeaux mixture, the formula being 6 pounds of blue-stone (copper sulphate), 4 pounds of lime and 45 gallons of water. A mixture of lime and sulphur dusted over the beds before the plants appear is also an excellent preventative. About 3 ounces of sulphur mixed to 2 pounds of lime should be used.

The bed is now ready for the sash. This may be obtained from a hardware dealer at a cost varying from $2 to $3 each. In this climate, cloth is used to a great extent in place of glass, and the decrease in cost is an item much in favor of its use. Strong unbleached cotton cloth is treated with a preparation of oil, lead and resin, and admits sufficient light and answers nearly all the purposes of glass. The formula for the application is 3 quarts of white linseed oil, 1 ounce acetate of lead, 4 ounces white English resin; dissolve the acetate of lead by stirring in three or four spoonfuls of oil, powder the resin, beat the whole gently in a kettle and apply to the cloth while hot.

The critical point in hot bed management is as the young plants appear above the surface of the ground. They must have plenty of air, yet, if the weather is very cold, a strong draft must not strike them. No definite rules can be given for ventilation, but each grower must learn from experience just when to let in and when to shut off the air. As soon as the little plantlets have developed the second pair of leaves, they are ready for transplanting into the cold frames. These frames are made the same as the hot beds, except that no excavation is made and no artificial heat is given. Lighter lumber may also be used; boards one inch thick will answer as well as two inch plank.

Such plants as the tomato and cabbage are usually transplanted twice. The gain in vigor is well worth the additional expense. Transplanting tends to produce a short, vigorous plant, with an increased root area and feeding capacity—one able to support itself by its own stem without artificial support.

In the first transplanting into the cold frames, the plants should be placed about an inch apart each way, but this distance must be increased if only one transplanting is to be given. Too close planting causes deficient light and the plant spindles up weak in stem, with a yellowish green, scant foliage and poorly developed roots. In the second transplanting, the plants should be at least 2 1/2 or 3 inches apart.

As the plants increase in size and strength, more air must be given, and the cloth or glass should be entirely removed for several days before the plants are to be set in the field. In order that they may become sufficiently "hardened off" to prevent injury from sudden cold snaps after planting. Tomato plants rightly hardened off will not be injured by a light frost.

WILL BE ARBITRATED.

Washington, Dec. 28.—The state department has just added another to the long list of arbitrations which it has arranged within the last few years for the settlement of American claims. This arbitration will provide for the settlement of the "Pious Fund," which has been a subject of diplomatic exchange between the United States and Mexico since the Mexican war. The claim rose through the failure of the Mexican government to pay to the archbishop of California interest on lands belonging to the Jesuits, for which the main government acted as trustee.

The claim was submitted to the Mexican claims commission in 1877 and judgment given in favor of the church for about $1,000,000. The Mexican government claimed that the payment extinguished the claim, but the state department held that the interest began again from the date of the award, and has run, until at present it amounts to another $1,000,000.

Personal representations by the archbishop of California and other dignitaries of the Catholic church caused the department to press the matter, with the result stated.

Mr. Geo. Dunlap of Millican was in Bryan Monday and in conversation with a Pilot reporter said that he was making an effort to have the I. & G. N. railroad put a depot at the rock quarry near Millican. He pointed out how it would be a help to Bryan to have a depot there and said that he was prepared to state positively that Bryan would get a large part of the cotton and a big trade from that section if they could get a depot. He also says the laborers at the quarry would come to Bryan to trade, and to give an idea of the amount of money that will be paid out there for labor in the next two years, he stated they had a contract to furnish 125,000 tons of rock for the rebuilding of the forts at Galveston, which would make about 6,000 car loads. The labor for blasting and loading a car costs from $5 to $10, and if that amount of money, or even half of it, were spent in Bryan, it would be a big thing. —Brazos Pilot.

MEN'S OUTFITTERS

Mr. Geo. Dunlap of Millican was in Bryan Monday and in conversation with a Pilot reporter said that he was making an effort to have the I. & G. N. railroad put a depot at the rock quarry near Millican. He pointed out how it would be a help to Bryan to have a depot there and said that he was prepared to state positively that Bryan would get a large part of the cotton and a big trade from that section if they could get a depot. He also says the laborers at the quarry would come to Bryan to trade, and to give an idea of the amount of money that will be paid out there for labor in the next two years, he stated they had a contract to furnish 125,000 tons of rock for the rebuilding of the forts at Galveston, which would make about 6,000 car loads. The labor for blasting and loading a car costs from $5 to $10, and if that amount of money, or even half of it, were spent in Bryan, it would be a big thing.—Brazos Pilot.

THE WOMEN WIN OUT

Will Have a Vote at the Methodist General Conferences.

FULL VOTE IS NOT IN

Other Features of the New Constitution also Carried—The Right for Women to Vote Ends a Very Long Struggle.

New York, Dec. 28.—The long struggle for official recognition in conferences by women of the Methodist church is probably ended at last and it is claimed the women have won. A statement to this effect has just been made by Dr. Stephen L. Baldwin, recording secretary of the Mission society of the Methodist Episcopal church,
who says the returns from the conferences are so far in that it is certain the new constitution is accepted.

The new constitution was submitted at a general conference of the church held in Chicago in 1900, approved by it, and referred for decision to the conferences throughout the world. The principal changes are that it gives women the right to sit as delegates in the general conference; it gives laymen at electoral meetings the authority to vote on constitutional questions and it changes the vote necessary in general conference to amend the constitution from three-fourths to two-thirds.

DEWET'S VICTORY.

It Is More Disastrous to British Than
at First Believed.

London, Dec. 28.—The war office issued a list of British casualties at Zeefontein on December 24, when Col.
Firman's camp, consisting of three companies of yeomanry and two guns, was successfully rushed by the Boer force under command of General De-Wet's attack. Six officers and 50 men were killed, 8 officers wounded and 4 officers missing. It is presumed the missing officers were taken along with the captured guns.

Numbers of non-commissioned officers and men were wounded and the missing have not yet been received, but the aggregate promises to make the Zeefontein affair a memorable disaster to the British.

Simultaneously with the above the war office gave out a dispatch from Kitchener chronicling a minor success of the South African constabulary
who raided Bothaville and captured 36
Boers.

Schley and His Counsel Consult.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Rear Admiral Schley has been joined at his apartments at the Richmond by his counsel, Isadore Rayner, and assistant counsel, Teague, both of whom came from Baltimore at the admiral's request in order to consider what further steps, if any, were to be taken in the Schley case. It is understood the special purpose of the meeting was to decide as to what shall be done in the way of civil action against the author or publisher of MacLay's history, which was the basis for recent investigation.

New York, Dec. 28.—Rumors are in discuss, deny or affirm the rumor. Mr.

Carnegie also refuses to make any comment regarding this rumor or his alleged intentions with respect to a sity.

TRAGEDY IN ALABAMA.

West Reach Shot Down at Blocton by His Brother-in-Law.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 28.—West
Reach, a prominent citizen of Blocton,
was shot and killed by Tom Stewart,
his brother-in-law. Stewart claims that Reach, who married his sister, has continually mistreated her, and she was forced to separate from him just a few days ago. He says Reach then threatened to kill him and his brother.

At the time of the shooting Reach was unarmed, and it is said was not expecting an attack from Stewart. He was standing in a restaurant, which is separated from a poolroom by a screen. Stewart, who had been standing behind this screen, walked out and called to Reach to look that way, saying he wanted him to know who shot him.
Reach turned around, and as he did so Stewart fired, the entire load entering the neck and severing the jugular vein.
Stewart was accompanied by his brother, and both of them are now in jail at Centerville. The affair has created a sensation in Blocton, as all the persons concerned belong to prominent families.

CRAZED WITH LIQUOR.

A Half Breed Fatally Wounds One Man
and Then Kills Himself.

Malta, Mont. Dec. 28.—Tom Paranto, a half breed, crazed with liquor and insanely jealous of the daughter of Mrs. Fannie Anderson, another half breed, tried to force an entrance into the Anderson cabin, but was ordered away. He returned with his rifle and began firing into the house, one bullet striking Mrs. Anderson. A constable and posse went in pursuit of him.
He had in the meantime barricaded himself in his cabin and well supplied with ammunition fired on everyone who approached. A man named Demery one of the attacking party was fatally wounded. Paranto suddenly ceased firing and the posse breaking in the door found he had turned his weapon upon himself,
blowing the top of his head off.

Not Allowed to Speak.

Topeka, Dec. 27.—At the meeting of the Kansas Teachers' association here Carrie Nation, the Kansas joint smasher, attempted to make an address. Going up to the speakers' stand, Mrs.
Nation told President Sinclair that she had been requested to speak by a large number of the teachers. The president informed her that she had heard nothing of such a request. Without waiting for an introduction Mrs. Nation advanced to the front of the platform and began to address the teachers in her usual style. She was removed before she had fairly started.

Prisoners Escape Jail.

Longview, Tex., Dec. 28.—Five prisoners confined in the Gregg county jail
made their escape Thursday night.

the habit of singing very loud and singing drowning the noise of the
